This scoring will determine which Offerors are considered to be in the competitive range and may be the basis for an award decision without further steps.

If the selection committee elects not to award based upon evaluation scoring, it may engage in a forced elimination process. To inform this process, it may require oral presentations or interviews with the Offerors considered to be in the competitive range. If oral presentations or interviews are conducted, they may also be scored, or they may simply be considered as information supporting the forced elimination process. The selection committee may request revisions to the proposal from each of the Offerors at the conclusion of the interviews. The intent of the forced elimination process is to reach consensus. The decision will be based on all relevant factors, and based upon perception of best value. EXHIBIT 5 STATEMENT OF WORK

5.1 BACKGROUND

The City of Colorado Springs, Colorado – Olympic City, USA - ranked #3 Best Place to Live for 2019 by US News and World Report, is accepting proposals from qualified consultants for a major overhaul of the Zoning and Subdivision Ordinances, Chapter 7 of City Code, with the goal of creating a new, modern Unified Development Code (UDC).

Colorado Springs is a large and growing, Home Rule City located at the foot of Pikes Peak with a population of approximately 465,000 (as of July 2018). The City has a land area of 195 square miles, about one third of which is vacant or remaining to be developed. Colorado Springs is in a period of high growth. In the 4 years from 2015-2018, approximately 12,700 additional dwelling units have been permitted within City limits, including almost 5,000 multifamily units. The City is also seeing increase in infill and redevelopment in mature neighborhoods and commercial corridors. In 2009, the City established a Form-Based Zone and Code for its downtown, which was most recently revised in 2012. The downtown is experiencing an overall resurgence, significant public and private investment and residential development.

Its local economy is heavily reliant on the military, but also includes important tourism, non-profit, retiree, service professional and high tech sectors. Its fiscal and political philosophies tend toward conservative, with an emphasis on supporting jobs and a business-friendly climate. The City owns its utility system (water, wastewater, gas and electric) which is operated as a separate enterprise under the direction of Utilities Board which at this time is comprised of City Council. In late 2010 the City's voters approved a major change in governance from a Council-Manager to a Mayor-Council form; this was implemented in 2011.

The state of the current Zoning and Subdivision Ordinance is not unusual:

- It has not been completely updated since the late 1990's, with the last major overhaul in 2001
- It is mainly Euclidian in nature, except for the downtown core, and contains standards that are outdated and difficult to administer
- Numerous amendments have been made that are not all consistent with the rest of the City Code
- The entire code is designed to perpetuate suburban-styled development and lacks the ability to achieve context sensitive design in Colorado Spring's many older neighborhoods
- It is inflexible, and thus, clients are frequently in need of zoning variances to antiquated standards
- It is not user-friendly and lacks consistent graphics to improve readability
- Individual zoning district standards and permitted uses are dated and not easily applicable to today's development needs

The City recently completed a very successful update to the Comprehensive Plan, coined PlanCOS, which concluded with the unanimous adoption of the plan by City Council in early 2019. PlanCOS is the goal and vision for the community and is organized around six powerful vision themes; Vibrant Neighborhoods, Unique Places, Thriving Economy, Strong Connections, Renowned Culture and Majestic Landscapes. PlanCOS and its vision themes set the stage for the zoning and subdivision rewrite. PlanCOS is somewhat unique that it does not include a typical “future land use map”, but rather relies on its vision themes, strategies and neighborhood typologies to help guide development and redevelopment.

The existing City Code, Chapter 7, can be accessed at:

PlanCOS can be accessed via the City website at:

5.2 OBJECTIVES

The City is seeking consultants that must have experience and knowledge in the fields of municipal planning and zoning, including experience in writing and updating zoning, subdivision, and consolidated development regulations. The goal upon completion is adoption and implementation of a modern and cutting-edge code that incorporates form based or context sensitive applications into new regulations creating both design and infill standards for development of the City’s existing developed areas as well as greenfield targeted growth areas on the north and northeast portions of the City.

Areas of the particular interest to be addressed through this process include, but are not limited to:

- Implementation of PlanCOS through zoning and subdivision standards
- Review of all existing zoning classifications and use tables
- Review of dimensional standards
- Recommendations on new zoning district(s) and standards for high-density single-family and multi-family residential development, beyond typical suburban designs
- Inclusion of clear and user friendly graphics that illustrate regulations and make the code easy to use and intuitive
- Standards that will help the City achieve high-quality infill and redevelopment that is integrated into existing neighborhoods rather than separated by “buffers”
- Flexibility for mixed-use development and land use pattern
- Zoning that eliminates the need use planned unit development [re]zoning to achieve creative projects
- Review of administrative procedures
- Multi-modal transportation options including bicycles and pedestrians
- Review of overlay districts
- Landscaping standards

- Parking ratios
- Lighting standards
- Land use definitions
- Overall site design standards
- Limited non-single-family architectural/building design/building material standards
- Subdivision standards, including right-of-way widths, cost recovery/reimbursement procedures, and general subdivision design

Excluded from this process are:

- Sign regulations
- Park land and school land dedication standards
- Standards for fiscal impact analyses
- Impact fees
- Building and construction codes (the City is a member jurisdiction of the Pikes Peak Regional Building Department and does not have its “own” building department. The PPRBD adopts and enforces all model codes on behalf of participating jurisdictions.)

The City anticipates this process to move forward expeditiously, with final adoption by City Council in mid-2021.

5.3 SCOPE

The consultant will work with public officials, city staff, community groups, citizens and a citizen advisory committee to develop a “hybrid” zoning and subdivision ordinance which incorporates contextual standards in established neighborhoods, updated but conventional zoning standards in newer, largely built out areas, and standards that support walkable, mixed use neighborhoods in yet-to-be developed areas of the City.

The final work program will be developed in conjunction with the City Project Manager (“PM”) but the scope of work should include the following:

Evaluation of the Current Zoning Ordinance. The consultant will work closely with City staff to gather broad-based input about the existing zoning and subdivision ordinances and identify issues through a comprehensive evaluation - identifying internal inconsistencies, conflicts, overlaps, redundancies, outdated provisions and propose changes that will make the UDC user-friendly and intuitive.

Review of PlanCOS. The consultant will review and identify plan goals, objectives and recommendations to ensure the UDC will be consistent vision themes, goals and typologies within PlanCOS.

Review of Other Plans. The consultant will review of other plans as deemed applicable that may influence the UDC. These plan include: Park Facilities Master Plan, Shooks Run Facilities Master Plan, Experience Downtown Colorado Springs Master Plan, among other.

Public Outreach. The consultant will develop and implement an innovative public outreach strategy designed to inform community stakeholders and the general public on the benefits of a uniform development code through advisory committee meetings, community meetings and workshops, as well as web/social media interaction throughout the process and at least 3 briefings/presentations at the Planning Commission and at least 3 briefings/presentations at City Council.

Evaluation of Existing Neighborhoods, Corridors and Districts. Colorado Springs contains many unique areas that will warrant context-sensitive regulations.

Drafting the Document. The consultant will prepare an overall preliminary outline first, then drafts of the UDC, including graphics, for review by staff, advisory committee, and the public, culminating in a final version to be acted upon by the Planning Commission and the City Council.

Integration of the New Code into User-Friendly Formats. The consultant will work with the PM, City Attorney's office and Information Technologies to ensure the Unified Development Code is in the appropriate format for adoption and codification while being accessible and interactive with the public.

Staff Training. The consultant shall provide resources to assist City staff with implementation of the new code through a 'start-up' period not to exceed one year.

5.4 TASKS

Funding for completion of the initial tasks is available for commencement of work in the third quarter of 2019. In years 2020 and 2021 the funding will be contingent on City approval of the budget for that year but is expected. Therefore, proposals should be organized with tasks and deliverables consistent with an overall schedule illustrating the importance of project conclusion before April 2021 along with the ultimate budget. Tasks as outlined below are general and the consultant is expected to utilize best management practices to expand upon needed tasks and actions.

5.4.1 RESEARCH, EVALUATION AND PROJECT PLANNING

The consultant will need to familiarize themselves with the existing zoning and subdivision ordinances as well as PlanCOS. The consultant is expected to apply expertise from other relevant code update efforts throughout the country. As a supplement the consultant will use the existing code issues list as part of providing a comprehensive evaluation of the existing ordinances. Interviews with key stakeholders and users will be a critical part of this initial evaluation.

A report summarizing the findings of the analysis, including work plan and schedule, will be drafted and presented. The report shall provide an outline of the proposed ordinance structure and shall include an analysis of the current development regulations and identify the key issues that need to be addressed in the rewrite. It shall also summarize national best practices that might be considered for incorporation into the ordinance.

The work plan and schedule will include dates for key deliverables to be submitted for approval and methodology for delivering work products. The work plan shall provide a summary of how approvals will be attained by the consultant's internal team for key deliverables and list the point people for each stage of approval. Lastly, the work plan shall identify how deliverables may be modified and updated in the future.

Appendix A offers a list of a number of the issues that have been raised over the last several years by staff and the external Code Scrub Committee. Staff will also identify those issues to be reviewed when this task is initiated.

5.4.2 ADVISORY COMMITTEE AND COORDINATION

Primary coordination for all activities will be through the PM. Additional coordination is to be performed with an advisory committee that will be appointed by City Council in association with this project. The PM will coordinate all activities between the consultant and advisory committee.

Advisory committee membership is expected to be limited in number but also broadly based and include representation from City Council, Planning Commission, City Administration, Colorado Springs Utilities, development and neighborhood representatives, building industry, design professional and other community leaders.

5.4.3 PUBLIC INFORMATION AND PARTICIPATION PROCESSES

The selected consultant will be required to develop and conduct an extensive Public Outreach and Communications process in coordination with the PM and the City Public Communications Office. This will require contact with, coordination and/or presentations to existing organizations as determined by the PM and the advisory committee. Existing City venues and events should also be considered. City staff will be available to strategically leverage and augment outreach and representation.

Other public information efforts (i.e. flyers, e-mails, website, mobile applications, key-pad polling etc.) will be necessary to involve and then keep all affected interests updated on the progress of the project, and to obtain input. It is anticipated that the selected consultant will develop a project communications plan consistent with the latest applicable and appropriate technology and techniques. This communications plan should specifically recommend and include cost-effective means of obtaining useful input from traditionally uninvolved or under-represented constituents.

5.4.5 UNIFIED DEVELOPMENT CODE OUTLINE AND STRATEGY

The consultant shall provide an outline of the proposed changes to the zoning and subdivision ordinances. The consultant shall present the outline to the PM and the advisory committee prior to the creation of the draft UDC. The outline shall include:

- An overview of the proposed structure and the substance of the UDC
- Different options for addressing issues
- A rationale for recommended approaches
- A chapter-by-chapter detailed description of the proposed UDC

5.4.6 DRAFT PLAN DOCUMENT

The Consultant shall prepare a draft UDC based on the outline presented from the previous task. If it is recommended that zone districts be reclassified, the consultant will prepare an updated zoning map. The consultant shall also provide working maps that show how the proposed changes would be applied. It is expected that the draft development code changes will have multiple rounds of drafting, circulation, and revisions.

5.4.7 PUBLIC REVIEW OF DRAFT

After initial review and comment by City staff and the advisory committee, the ordinance shall be distributed for public review. The Consultant shall revise the Preliminary Draft UDC into a Public Review Draft UDC that is suitable for public review and comment, which includes comments received from City staff and the advisory committee. All new and revised content expected to be included in the final adopted UDC; this includes an updated Zoning Map (if applicable).

5.4.8 FINAL UDC AND ADOPTION

Facilitate and document the formal adoption process by providing the final UDC to the City Planning Commission and then City Council for review and final adoption.

5.4.9 UDC IMPLEMENTATION

The Consultant shall create an implementation strategy and assist City staff with the implementation of the UDC; providing support in the form of presentation aids, graphics or other materials.

5.5 DELIVERY

Note that these deliverables are purposefully generalized in anticipation that the consultant will provide more specific recommendations. Deliverables specifically will include (but not limited to):

- Weekly Project Status Reports
- Monthly Project Status Reports tied to project schedule and budget
- Summary Minutes of all Advisory committee, Stakeholder, Public and Technical Meetings
- Finalized Project Work Program and Schedule
- Public/Stakeholder Input and Communications Plan

- Ordinance Alternatives
- Draft Ordinances and Associated Maps and Graphics
- Final Ordinances prepared in coordination with the City Attorney's Office in acceptable format for adoption and codification
- Original files electronically, I.e. In-Design (art links) and Word.

5.6 TRAVEL

The consultant will be expected to attend key project planning meetings, stakeholder meetings, community forums and public hearings. The proposal should specify the recommended travel needs of the team.

5.7 PERIOD OF PERFORMANCE

The City anticipates entering into a contract in the third quarter of 2019. The submitted proposal will include a project timeline broken down by task groups and timeframes for each individual task group with the project wrapping up no later than April 2021.
